Take comfort in knowing that a rewarding sense of inner peace is within reach, even if you have no business or Internet experience. Stay with us and let us show you how others are earning online and loving it.

Getting Started

The fear of the getting started in anything new tends to make people procrastinate. This type of fear usually stems from simply not knowing how to do something, or where to start. Our goal is to help you with this process and overcome that fear so you can start making money. After all, that's what you're here for, right? Let's begin with some questions that are commonly asked by people who are new to using the Internet to make money.

Do I need special skills or a Degree to make money online?

You need no Degree or special skills at all... unless you decide that you want to go find a second career as a web designer or programmer! But, for most people, there are other far easier ways to earn money using your computer. Take Associate Marketing for example; almost everyone has heard of Amazon.com, the world's largest online retailer. But, did you know that Amazon also created the very first Associate Marketing program over 16 years ago for people who wanted to make money selling products that Amazon.com supplies? Amazon.com didn't require a college degree or any business experience then, and they still don't today. About the only things you need to be able to make money in Associate Marketing are a computer, an Internet connection, commitment and the desire to learn.

Will it cost me a lot of money?

It does not have to cost you a lot of money! For example, Amazon.com does not charge you to become an Associate. It's absolutely free. You just need a website... which, by-the-way, you can also get for about the cost of dinner at your favorite restaurant.

Surprised? If you follow our guidance, the biggest initial expense you'll encounter to start earning online as an Associate of Amazon.com, is the purchase of your computer and getting Internet access and email. Since you are probably reading this on your home PC, you've likely already taken care of all that... so keep reading!

When a person makes the decision to make money online with a website, the latest (and truly the greatest!) way that companies introduce people to their website products is to charge a small activation fee. After that, you'll just pay a small monthly hosting fee. The best companies will even include doing all the work to set you up as an Associate. This type of start-up service can really make getting started painless. It's a smart way to go.

One of the foremost reasons that Associate Marketing is ideal for individuals embarking on their first effort to make money online is that Associate Marketing may allow you to start making money very quickly. And seeing your website online is a great way to stimulate excitement and keep you learning.

Later on, you may even decide that you want to use your website to sell items of your own that you bought wholesale or created and built yourself. Although it may take a little time and extra cash to stock up the inventory items, there are great deals to be found at wholesale prices for this purpose. And in the meantime, you can still get paid commissions selling products and services offered by Amazon.com and many other associate providers. This can be a great way to start too because Amazon.com and others will actually deliver right to your customer's door.

Can I still make money online, even if I've never had a business before?

Absolutely! Thousands of people use the internet to make money. They all started somewhere! Don't let inexperience stop you achieving your goals. Again, the most important thing is to make the decision to get started and then follow through.

The Internet itself holds a plethora of information at your fingertips that can help you learn how to make money online. You can find tips, tricks and personal accounts from people who've been there and are doing it. Utilize the Internet as a resource to gain the power that knowledge brings. And remember that if you start by choosing a website company that offers instructions and customer support, it can really help to take the guesswork out of getting started.

How much money can I make working online?

How much money you'll make will vary based upon your commitment and the effort you put forth. The amount of time and effort you put into any endeavor and the income you earn with the products or services you're offering all play a part in what profit you may derive. As with any business, some Internet marketers may do extremely well, while others may make little or nothing. Others may make just enough to give them a little extra income. Again, this is where your personal commitment and willingness to learn come in to play. No matter how much you make, one thing is certain; you can't increase your income if you don't act. You can't make more money unless you try to. People who are making money online all made one important decision that changed their lives; they decided to give it a shot!

Do I really need a website?

A website gives you a great center point for making money online. While it is possible to make money using blogs and social media sites, having your own website gives you a great deal of credibility as an online marketer. It's a wonderful way to showcase anything you want people to see! You need to show potential clients what products or services you have to offer. Your website serves the same purpose as an 'office' or 'store front' would, only you won't have to open and close the doors morning and night, stock the shelves or sweep the floors. Plus, there's no pesky rent to pay.

You can acquire a websites easily and quickly if you choose a company that offers a combination that includes a flexible website platform, low start-up prices and fast set up. If you want to, you can go out and hire a web designer to create a website for you. But going that route will undoubtedly cost you a lot more and you may not get satisfactory support after your site is built.

Do I need any special licenses to make money online?

If you plan to create your own products, or offer a service you will service yourself, you will want to check with your local government agencies to determine what you will need it to do to be compliant in your local area. This is another advantage of choosing a direction like Associate Marketing. Associate companies will process and fulfill all your orders for you and pay you commissions. They will also handle all of the customer service so you can simply focus on making your website the best it can possibly be.

I'm nervous about taking money from customers.

What if I mess up the payment processing system?

Once again, Associate Marketing relieves this concern since all transactions are handled by the Associate provider company. If however, you're selling items directly, you will want to use an online payment system like PayPal or Clickbank. They're easy to set up. But do choose a website provider that knows how to guide you when you are ready to go that route. Initially, many people use associate programs because they take care of the whole payment process, including refunds and even customer service. Shopping cart software will sometimes be available from your website provider if you're interested in that option.

Legitimate Ways To Make Money Online

There are several directions you can choose from to get started. You will want to check out each option and see which one suits your needs, and excites you. Here are some of the more popular methods people get into and what each one typically entails:

Associate Marketing

We've spent a lot of time talking about Associate Marketing because it began in the late 1990's and is still going strong today. This simple system allows you to sign up as an Associate with a popular Internet retail company and earn commissions offering the same products as the company you're associated with. Associate companies provide you with links, banners, product descriptions and just about everything else you need to equip your website and get started. Then, every time one of your customers places an order, the Associate provider company processes the order and pays you your commission. If you don't have any experience building websites or adding Associate links, you may want to use a company that offers websites specifically designed for Associate Marketing and that has streamlined and made these processes easy and straight forward enough for you to do them yourself.

Typically, as an Associate you earn a pre-determined amount of money based on the sales you make of products or services. But in some cases, you could make money just from viewers clicking from your site and going on to the Associate provider's own websites.

In other cases you can earn money by getting customers to sign up for things on the Associate sites, such as newsletters or promotions, etc. Each Associate program will discuss this further in their own terms and conditions regarding how they work. It's usually pretty easy to understand how you earn commissions. Your earnings are usually tracked through an Associate link that you're provided with when you sign up. Again, check with your website company and make sure that they will help set up up with the Associate providers. Its best to use a company that specializes in websites that are built for Associate Marketing because they will have software that automatically includes your Associate link for you so you'll always be certain to receive credit for activity on your website.

What skills are helpful?

You don't have to be a salesman or a marketer to be an Associate marketer. Knowledge on how to do these things will be important though. Learn everything you can about how online marketing works and learn how to be a successful Associate marketer from other top marketers. If you work with a company with experience supporting NEW Associate Marketers, you'll find it can be quick and easy to get things going.

What tools are needed?

The tools needed will be minimal. Besides the usual computer with reliable Internet access, you will need a website to sell the Associate products. You won't have to keep track of inventory, stock products, process orders or deal with customer service problems. Again, all those tasks are handled by the Associate provider company.

How do you get started?

You will need to determine what niche you have for your Associate marketing website. This helps you to stand out from your competitors. For example, you could use nutrition as your niche. Create a website based on that niche market. Then simply search the Associate Company's website for products to sell on your site. Make sure that the products you decide to sell are related in some way to the niche you have chosen.

If your niche is in the nutritional field, you will also want to offer Associate products that are related in some way to nutrition. By keeping your products and content focused on a specific niche, search engines will view your website as a good choice when people perform searches for products related to your niche.

There are many people who operate Associate Marketing websites. When your website is live on the Internet, the most important piece will be promoting your website to get consumers to find you. This is one more reason to consider a company that specializes in Associate marketing and gives full support!

NOTE: Some of the following methods discussed in this report may involve starting an actual business and may be more likely to require licensing.

Service-Based Businesses

A service-based business is one where you offer some type of service to potential clients. Some of these include:

- Writing
- Web Design
- Accounting/Bookkeeping
- Virtual Assistant

Many small businesses have a tough time getting all of their business tasks done by themselves, so they outsource those projects to someone else. They look for people who offer the services they need done for them. If you have experience in some of these areas, you could offer a service and start your own business selling yourself. For example, if you have some writing experience and can write well, you can offer that as a service to others who need creative writing done for their sites.

What skills are needed?

Depending on the type of service you choose to provide your potential clients, you should have some skills under your belt. It's not necessary to have an educational degree in order to perform these services. But clients like to see that you have some kind of experience to complete the tasks they need done.

Working online doesn't provide the face to face contact that brick and mortar companies do when they hire employees. Trust is harder to come by online. People do like to know the person they're hiring has skills and knowledge in a particular field. While it's not necessary to have many years of experience performing in your field, the fact that you have done it before and have some testimonials to back that claim up can help you tremendously.

What tools are needed?

The tools you need will depend on the type of services you plan to provide. The more common ones that many service-based businesses need are:

- Computer
- Reliable Internet access
- Phone
- E-mail program
- Website

There may be some software programs to obtain as well. Each service uses different ones. But many need a word processing program, excel program, and some even use a web designing program.

You should consider an Instant Messaging program for those clients who like to be able to contact you instantly without having to use the phone to call or wait for an email response.

How do you get started?

First thing you want to do is decide on the type of service you plan to offer your clients. Jot down everything you can think of that shows you have some experience or knowledge in that particular field.

Next, get your website created. Showcase your skills or experience on your site and provide clients with testimonials from other people who have used your skills and were pleased with the results. Place your rates and any other information about how you run your business.

Market your site on various places on the Internet to get your online business out there for potential clients to find and check out. When clients contact you to hire you for whatever service they need, reiterate to them how things will go. For example, let them know how they will be invoiced for the work done and how much it will cost etc.

It will take awhile to build a list of regular clients, so don't expect to have tons of clients right away. Give it time and keep marketing your service-based business until you get to the point where you're practically turning away clients because you're too busy. Running a service-based business is a perfect option for those who already are performing that service at another job. In some cases, you could make more money offering those services online than you can by working a brick and mortar position.

Selling On E-Bay

This is another popular online business that a people start out with. E-Bay is a popular online auction website that millions of people use every day to find good deals on items they are looking for.

You can sell anything you have at home as well as selling items using a drop ship method. If you do a search on the e-bay site, you will see a variety of items that people are selling. They could be used items or brand new items that come from wholesalers. Either way, people will pay good money if you provide them with what they're looking for.

Some people go so far as to buy items from flea markets and garage sales for the sole purpose of reselling them on e-bay for a profit.

What skills are helpful?

There aren't a lot of skills you would need to sell items on E-Bay. The ability to market your items will be the most important one to have. People can do a search on the site for the items you're selling, but if you want to make money in this type of business, you will want to market those items elsewhere to get people to find them. If you're selling items from your home, you should be able to take a good photo of the item so people can see what shape the item is in.

What tools are needed?

Really, the only tools you should need to start this type of business is an account with E-Bay to sell your items. If you plan to use a drop ship method, you would have to find a wholesaler that will ship the items direct to the customers.

Access to a computer with reliable Internet access will be necessary to keep track of your sales. You will also need an online account like PayPal to receive money from your customers.

How do you get started?

Sign up for an account with E-Bay that allows you to sell from them. Plan to purchase items from the site as well to help build your user ratings, so people will have a little more confidence in buying from you. Place photos, if possible, of the items that you want to sell. Items that have a photo sell much faster than those that don't. People like to see what it is they're buying, so provide them with the best quality photo possible.

Review all informational materials as well as the rules on the E-Bay website to get tips on making more sales and how the process of selling on the site works.

Selling on E-Bay is an excellent way to start your own online business. This gives you your first taste of an online business without having to have a lot of equipment to get you started. Plus, you get the benefit of getting rid of items that are cluttering up your home while you make a little money on the side.

Making Money From Membership Sites

Some online business owners make money from selling memberships to their websites. People purchase memberships to gain access to content that the website owner provides them on a regular basis.

For example, you may offer memberships to Internet users who are in need of articles for their websites. The memberships would need to be renewed every few months or so, depending on how long your memberships are good for. Every time someone renews their membership, you make more money.

The profit potential for this kind of business is pretty high. It won't cost much to provide your members with informational items, but you could charge them a fee to access them, giving you a nice profit.

What skills are helpful?

Marketing skills will be the most helpful. Getting Internet users to your site to purchase your memberships is what will make you money. Having some knowledge of running a website could be useful as well to keep your site running smoothly for your members. You may want to have some knowledge of the products you're offering too. For example, if you're offering articles to your members, you should know what makes a good article and how they can work for the different purposes.

What tools are needed?

You will need a high quality website to handle the demands that a membership site will bring. You should provide excellent service should something go wrong with the site. There are some membership site management software programs that can help you get one set up and running for a small start up fee.

Content for the site is another tool you will need. You need to provide your paying members with fresh content so that they'll use it regularly. This could be in the form of written articles, software programs or even online games, depending on what you plan to give your members.

How do you get started?

You will need to plan your membership site beforehand. What do you plan to offer your members? Will it be content, software, or? When you have made your decision, then come up with a new and different angle to provide your consumers.

You could provide content in a specific niche, like nutrition, or you could offer a certain kind of written content. Whatever it takes to provide Internet users with a fresh angle. This helps you stand out from the crowd of competitors out there. Next, get your membership site created with a shopping cart feature to handle the payments for the memberships. The membership management software programs should come with all you need to accomplish your business. All you would then need is the content to give to your members.

The most important step will be to market your membership site to get people to find you. Marketing techniques will be discussed later on in this report. Membership sites can offer you a means of earning residual income. If people are satisfied with what you give them, they will have no problems handing you their money to keep renewing their access to your site's content.

Making Money From Selling Products

This type of business can be done in a few different ways. One way is to create and sell your own products. Crafters often get into this type of business to sell their own creations to the Internet public. Scrapbook creators also choose this path for their business.

Another way to sell products is by using an online store selling other products. There would be no inventory of items to stock in your home, nor do you have to ship anything directly from your own location. The products are ordered through the 'store' you have set up and the wholesaler providing the products will ship the items direct to the customers for you. (See Associate Marketing)

What skills are helpful?

The skills you should have are the desire to work hard and give good customer service. A lot of your time will be spent making your products and potential customers will find you. Having a good website set up will be necessary to provide the customers with everything they need when deciding whether or not to buy your products.

Customers will have questions about the products and may have some problems that you will need to address, so good customer service skills will be a must. Establishing good rapport with your customer will start the cycle going of them coming back to buy more from you. Providing them with top notch customer service will help you gain that rapport.

What tools are needed?

If you have chosen to sell products that you create yourself, you will need to stock up on an inventory of items created. Check with some vendors to find good deals on items that are purchased in bulk to help you save some money.

Of course a website will be necessary for your customers to find your products, see what they are, and have a way to order what you're offering. Make sure the site has the shopping cart feature to make the purchasing process easier for your customers.

How do you get started?

The first thing you will want to do is decide what you're going to sell. Are you creating your own products to offer, or are you planning to sell other products through the use of drop shippers?

If you're planning to sell items you create yourself, then you will need to research vendors for the inventory you will need to make those products. Have some made up ahead of time, so that when consumers start to order your product, you can ship them out right away and not make them wait another day or two while you make them.

When the planning stage is done, you will need to get your website created to sell from. Look for a website provider that can get you into a website that has all the features you need. Make sure the site is easy to navigate and isn't so distracting that they get turned off from your business within a few seconds.

Of course, the last step in getting started in this business will be marketing your products, which will be discussed later in this report. This step is an important one if you want your business to be a success, so don't miss that section.

Selling products is a rewarding way to make money online. If you already create products to give away as gifts to friends and family, why not take the product to the Internet and sell it.

Little Known Secrets For Making Money Online

If you like the idea of selling products, but don't want to create one yourself, or if you just don't feel you are creative, then you can still operate this kind of business by having someone else ship products for you. Getting started this way online gives you the flexibility to spend the time needed with your family, but still have the capacity to earn.

Making Money The PLR Way

PLR stands for Paid Label Rights. PLR is written content that can be sold to others to use for whatever they want to use it for. Website owners search these out to get content for their sites for a small fee. It doesn't sound like a money making opportunity when put that way.

The thing is, the same package of written content can be sold numerous times to other people. Here's how it works; let's say you are selling a package of 10 articles - all about a certain topic like say, pet care. Typically, these packages are sold at about $1 an article. Someone who has a website about pet care needs articles to place on their site, so they buy a package from you. You just made $10.

Now, that same package of 10 articles can be sold again and again and again. In the end, you can sell the same 10 articles 50 times bringing you the grand total of $500 just for that one package. You can sell more than one package of PLR articles at the same time increasing your profit potential.

Everyone charges something different and offers different types of PLR content, as well as different article topics. You can sell E-book material and special reports as well as articles. People can take these articles, change them to their needs, and use them wherever they want.

What skills are helpful?

Writing skills would be necessary. You would need to write good quality articles, even though the people that buy them will change them anyway. You could hire a ghostwriter to write them for you, but keep in mind you would have to pay them for their time, so this is a good option if you don't mind losing some of the profit. Marketing your PLR content would also be necessary. In order to make good money in this business, you will need to get people to find your content, so pull out all the stops when starting this business.

What tools will I need?

If you're going to write the article content yourself, you would need a computer with word processing software installed. A website will also be needed to sell your PLR content from.

If you choose to hire someone to write the content for you, then you will need to find a ghostwriter that fits your budget and provides good quality content.

How do you get started?

The first place to start will be in getting the articles written. You will want to make sure that the package of articles that you sell together relate to a certain topic. Topics could include gardening, pet care, nutrition, exercise, etc...

Decide how much you will sell the articles for and get a website set up to sell them from. You can certainly use a website that provides the service of selling them for you, but you're better off selling them off your own site and marketing them yourself.

There is good money in PLR if you choose to get into this kind of business, as there are millions of websites out there that need content. With good marketing techniques, you can make a good living for you and your family quite easily.

Make Money From Selling Informational Type Products

The Internet is a great place to sell your knowledge. There are many people who will pay almost anything to get information they're desperately looking for. If you have the knowledge that they want, you could earn a substantial income.

Informational products come in many forms. It could be one of the following:

- E-Books
- E-Courses
- Tutorials
- Guides
- Podcasts

These are popular informational products that are well sought after by Internet users all over. If you have something to say, this could be the business for you.

What skills are helpful?

You should have knowledge of the topic that you're going to present to your consumers. It won't be necessary to have a doctorate, or any kind of degree to do this, but having a good amount of knowledge in the field would be helpful.

The ability to market your materials will also be helpful. The more people you reach with your products, the more people who may want to buy from you.

What Tools will be needed?

The tools you need will depend on what you plan to provide. E-Books and Guides could be written on word processing software and then converted to a PDF document, which is the most popular type of document people want.

Autoresponder programs will be needed for creating successful e-courses. Podcasts would need audio recording and editing software. Tutorials could be done a couple of different ways; you could use a power point presentation to present material, or you could use video tutorial software. Video tutorials are great for showing users how to use a specific program step by step.

Websites and blogs will be necessary to promote your informational products from as well.

How do I get started?

You will need to decide on a topic for your product. What do you have the most knowledge about that you could provide your potential consumers? When you know what you want to provide, then research that topic to see if you can find a new and unique angle to present it in.

Since there are lots of E-Books, tutorials, etc... on the Internet for sale, you will need to find something new to give to your customers. They won't be as willing to hand over their money if they don't think you have something new to give them.

Write out or record your informational product, and then edit them to your satisfaction. Once you have it the way you want it, then you can start selling it. Create a blog or website to sell it from, and make sure the site's content grabs Internet users' attention so they can purchase what you're offering.

Hire a copywriter if you can afford one to write the copy to promote those materials. They can write content in a way that makes your product so desirable that anyone would want to purchase it.

Little Known Secrets For Making Money Online

Creating informational products won't cost you much, but you can sell them for a nice profit. This is an excellent way to earn income online while maintaining a flexible schedule, which allows you to spend more time with your family.

Make Money Blogging

Blogging started out years ago as a way for people to connect to others and share pictures, stories, and experiences. It was considered to be a great personal journal-type tool that one could use to leave their mark on the Internet through their encounters.

Blogs then evolved to become excellent Marketing Tools, as well as a medium to make money. There are a few different ways to earn income from blogging. Here are a few:

Adsense Ads

The popular search engines offer a way to earn a little extra money with any blog or website. The idea is to place these ads on your site, and when a visitor clicks on an ad from your site you earn a pre-determined amount of money. The more clicks you can get from your site visitors, the more you can make. There are some rules, so if you choose to go this route, be sure to learn what not to do before signing up for their programs.

Product Reviews

There are some websites that you can sign up with that can help you connect with other companies who need people to review their products and get them some exposure on your blogs. Usually, the main requirement for this is to have a blog that's been around for a while and has a fair amount of visitors. Those companies would pay you a specified amount to review their product on your blog.

Contextual Links

Some business or website owners will pay a blogger to post one of their links within their blog posts. It may be the owners themselves contacting the blog author or a company that acts as the middleman. Those businesses will find blogs that relate to their companies sites, so the links provided on the blogs will be search engine friendly. This is a great way to earn some extra traffic for a site.

Sell Products

Blogs are another way you can sell your own products. Those who have businesses selling home décor items or food container items use blogs a lot to help sell their products and make more money online.

What skills would be helpful?

There aren't specialized skills involved in this type of business, except the ability to market your blog. You would want to research blogging as much as possible to learn some of the tricks of the trade to get your blog popular.

What Tools would be needed?

Your main tool, besides a computer with an Internet connection, would be a blog. There are many blogging programs out there to choose from. Some are free to set up with, while others require a monthly or annual fee to get started with.

The paid versions of blogging programs can help you connect with other blogs and increase your blog's traffic. The free versions are extremely easy to set up and most are extremely popular amongst bloggers, so finding people to connect with wouldn't be too hard to do.

How do I get started?

Sign up with a blogging program and start posting entries to it. Make sure you're blogging on a regular basis, which would be about 2 times a week. Blogs that aren't updated regularly tend to get lost in cyberspace.

Market your blog as much as possible. Get listed on blog directories, get on other people's blog rolls, and comment on other blog authors' posts to get some exposure to your blog. The more traffic you can drive to your blog, the higher your chance of making blogging a lucrative way to make money.

Most of the blogging programs will have a sign up for AdSense ads already included in their set up feature, so getting started with that will be easy. If you want to provide product reviews and contextual links, you will want to be blogging for awhile and have a fair amount of traffic coming to it.

When your blog is ready, find the companies that will help you connect with businesses that want to pay to have their products reviewed or have their links embedded with your blog post entries. Once that's set up, you can start earning some extra income with your blog.

Blogging is an easy way to earn some extra cash if you plan to work hard at marketing it. The ones successful at blogging for money use every route possible to get their blog well known in the Internet communities. The ones that don't, tend to earn only a few cents a week.

Become one of the more successful bloggers and make your blog your business and not just a hobby to partake in once in awhile. Your pocketbook will thank you for it.

Making Money Coaching Others

A coach is one who takes their know-how in a particular craft and shares it with others who want to be successful in that field as well. Coaches can be experts in anything from writing to marketing to business itself.

If you have good knowledge or experience in a particular area you can become a coach quite easily and make money doing it. There are many coaches who help others in web design, graphic design, and even in the coaching field as well.

A coach would offer tips and techniques to newbies within that field and answer questions throughout their learning process.

What skills are helpful?

The most important skill you should have for this type of business is the ability to be a good listener. You should also have great patience for your clients. Those who hire you to coach them want you to listen to their bad experiences and help guide them out of the muck they find themselves in, no matter how strange they may sound.

To build rapport and credibility in this business, you should know your field well. If you've never designed a website before, then being a web designing coach would not be a good idea, because your lack of experience will be spotted right away and trust will be lost.

What Tools will be needed?

You should have the following in this kind of business:

- Computer
- Email program
- Website
- Informative content for your site
- Shopping Cart feature for your site to handle payments
- Telephone dedicated for business purposes

Most of your conversations with clients will probably be through your email programs, but some people may be more comfortable being able to talk to you on a one-on-one basis, so a phone should be included in your list of tools.

How do I get started?

Plan your business out. What service will you be offering that you have knowledge in? Get some articles and other written content created to place on a website to help build credibility and expert status for your business.

Explain on your site how your service works and how much your rate will be. Show some testimonials from others who have used your services before and were pleased with the results. Make your site easily navigated so others won't get lost trying to find information about your coaching business.

Market your coaching business to get clients to come to you. Plan the goals the client wants to achieve by using you, and discuss how those goals will be obtained. Listen to their problems and questions, and provide insightful answers and support to keep them moving forward to their goals.

Coaches who have good knowledge or experience in a certain area are well sought after online. Use what you know about a topic and provide a coaching service to others to help them become an expert like you in the same field.

Make Money In The Genealogy Business

This is a perfect business opportunity for those who love to research and love to learn about our ancestors. Genealogists make a living by creating family trees for other people who don't have the time or the patience to do it themselves.

Almost everyone likes to know where they came from and what their ancestors did that might have made a mark on the world. You can cash into their curiosities by doing the research for them and providing them with their family heritage.

What skills would be helpful?

Excellent research and organization skills will be a high priority. These skills are what genealogy is all about. You will need to know where and how to research each family's heritage, and be able to place all the information in an easy to understand format for your clients.

What Tools would be needed?

You would need a computer with a reliable Internet connection. You should subscribe to some of the best genealogy websites available to use for your research. You should also invest in some guides or attend some classes to learn some tips and tricks on researching family trees.

A website would be needed to run your business from. Clients will need to know how you perform your work as well as how much you charge. Provide some samples, if possible, to show clients how thorough your work is.

How do I get started?

Get all your supplies brought together and find genealogy websites to subscribe to. Create a website to sell your service from, and then start marketing your business to get clients to your site.

Utilize your Internet resources for your research, as well as local libraries, courthouses, and historical societies. You may need to interview people to access some information, so you may need a phone as well.

Create your family tree document that will hold all the family heritage information, or use software programs that provide that for you.

If you love to research and are interested in historical documents, then you should be considering this type of business. Meet the demands that people have to find out their family history, and make money doing something you love to do.

Make Money With Desktop Publishing

If you're a creative person and can use a computer well, consider an online business with desktop publishing. This is where you create documents, flyers, brochures, calendars, and advertisements.

All these types of documents are created using a program or two from your computer, so having expensive machinery to create them will not be needed.

There are a lot of people looking for these creative pages for all kinds of uses, and don't know how to create one themselves. If you have some knowledge in this area, you could use it to make money providing them with these creations.

What skills are helpful?

The ability to make your way around a computer and use various types of software programs are some skills you should have. You don't have to be an artist to be in this business, because everything is done using the computer.

What Tools are needed?

Besides a computer, you should have the following equipment:

- Desktop publishing software
- Photo editing software
- Laser or Color Printer

- Scanner
- High Quality printer paper

Make sure you know how to use all the features of your equipment well so you can provide the best quality service for your clients.

How do I get started?

You should obtain all the necessary equipment to run your business. Decide on a niche to target your marketing efforts to, and then create a website to reflect that niche. Your website should provide potential clients with samples of your work to show your expertise in this field.

You could also brush up on your skills by reading any tutorials or guides about the desktop publishing field.

Desktop Publishing can be a very rewarding business for anyone to undertake who loves to achieve creations to make anyone envious. If you are one of those people and you want something that will provide flexibility, this is the business you should check into.

Creating A Business From Unusual Ideas

We've discussed the more conventional means of starting an online business. There are some unconventional means as well that should be looked at. By unconventional, we mean those ideas that people came up with and were laughed at by others. Those people that took those ideas to the top and made a huge living from them. Here are some of those ideas that people thought would never get off the ground:

Selling Old Seminars

One guy made a nice living by finding and selling old seminars that originally sold for thousands of dollars.

Domain Names

Someone came up with the idea that they could sell a service of naming domain names for other people. Sounds crazy, but the business took off for them. Turns out quite a few people needed that service.

Selling Used Engagement Jewelry

This idea reportedly came from someone who broke off their engagement, got the ring back, but found they couldn't return it for full value. They started a site for other people in the same boat to sell their jewelry and earn back what they paid for it, or as close to it as possible.

Selling Butterflies For A Living

Little Known Secrets For Making Money Online

Yes, it's possible, or at least that's what one person found out when someone bet him that he couldn't sell them. He not only won that bet, but made a huge business from that one little idea.

There are tons more ideas that people have come up and made them work as an online business, so check your memory banks and see if there's an idea hiding there that no one would believe could work. It just might prove them wrong.

Marketing Your Online Business

Strategies To Make Your Business Successful

Now that you've learned some different online businesses to choose from, you will want to learn some ways to market your business so it can become successful, like many other Internet marketers who have been down the path you want to travel. Let's explore some of the more popular strategies of marketing your online business.

Website

Your online business website is the perfect place to start. If there's one thing that could make or break your business, it would be the website itself. Here are some things that are important to know about your website for marketing purposes:

Domain Name

The domain name is the address to find your site on the Internet. You want to choose a domain name that matches closely to your site or business name. This helps any Internet user find your business easily if they're searching for a certain topic. An exact match would be the best option, but if it's not available, try finding one that comes as close as possible.

Keywords

Utilize the best keywords to place within the content on your site. Keywords are words that Internet searchers use when they go to the search engines to find information on a specific topic. The keywords would get indexed by the search engine and placed within the results page for a user. The higher your site is ranked on the results page, the more chance you have that the user will choose your site to visit.

Market With A Niche

A niche narrows down your business to market to a certain group of people; narrowing down your marketing efforts to a smaller group to help you give what your consumers want. Larger groups have too many people that have too many different needs. This makes it difficult to get your audience interested in what you have. The smaller groups will be the people that are more likely to want what you have, so marketing will be much easier.

Your website will need to reflect whatever niche you choose for your business. If you're targeting mothers with young children, your site should reflect that. You would have graphics that would connect to mothers with young children, and the content on the site should be written to something they could relate to. This will help with the search engines as well.

Blog

Provide a blog to go with your website. It should relate to the theme your business site has. Personal blogs should not be used here. If you use a blogging program that isn't connected with your site, try to design the blog's template to match your business site as close as possible, so it appears that the blog goes along with the site.

Blogs are another way to utilize the search engines to gain visitors. When a visitor finds your blog, they can see that you have more information to offer them on a topic elsewhere on your website, so they can just click through on the link provided.

Email Marketing

Emails are essential to any marketing campaign. This is how you keep your business and products fresh in your potential customers' minds. Getting a visitor to your site is one thing, but getting them to remember you over the millions of other websites out there is a whole thing in itself, especially when they're interested in buying.

Emails come at regular intervals to provide information to website visitors to help build credibility, as well as get your business name in the forefront of their minds. This can be done in a couple of different ways. To get email addresses to send your messages to, you will provide an opt-in email feature on your site, so that people can sign up for updates on what you're offering or for more information.

Newsletters

These are used to provide small articles in topics that relate to your business. For example, if you sell vitamins and minerals, your newsletter can offer articles on alternative health practices, etc... to show how important your product is to them.

Newsletters can be sent to their email inboxes with the introduction to an article and a link where they can go to your site to read the rest of the article. This enables users to become familiar with your site, and makes it easier to remember you when they decide they want to buy something you're offering.

E-Courses

You can have a sign up feature on your site for visitors to use to learn the basics about a topic. If you're selling vitamin products, you can use an e-course to help teach your readers how to pick the best ones for different kinds of health problems.

E-courses are typically sent over a 5-7 day period and are often offered for free. This keeps your business name in their minds, by reminding them every day that the e-course comes into their inbox.

Updates

For those who have purchased something from you or people who have signed up for this feature, you can provide them with updates on your products, discounts, freebies, etc. This way if you don't hook a visitor into buying in their first visit, they may see something later on that catches their eye and entices them to buy.

The updates can also help bring in more traffic for your site. Those who have already signed up for your lists will have friends, family, neighbors, and co-workers that they could refer to your business by simply forwarding the messages on.

Articles And Other Written Content

Besides providing good website content, articles and other written content can be used in several ways to market your business. Here are some of those ways:

Article Directories

Article directories provide great marketing tactics to use for your business. By writing and submitting an article related to your business site, you can achieve two things:

1. Credibility in the topic you have written about
2. Drive more traffic to your site by providing a link to your business website in the author's bio section, provided on the article directory sites.

These directory sites usually rank well with the search engine results page, so someone stumbling upon one of your articles submitted within a directory can find their way over to your website for more information on that topic.

Articles Placed Within Other Site's Newsletters Or Blogs

By being a guest writer on someone else's blog or newsletter, you can reach a whole other group of people looking for information on one topic.

You would provide a link to your site within these articles and then reciprocate the favor for the other website owner to provide the same kind of articles on your newsletters or blogs.

Articles On Digg Or Similar Sites

Having one of your articles submitted on Digg or a similar type site will gain you more access to your site. Digg is a site that provides articles other Internet users have deemed as good, informative articles. Those articles that receive a large number of “Diggs” will be pushed to the home page, where a lot of users will see and review them. Your site link could be included for those people who want more information on the topic.

Offer E-books Or Guides

These can provide your consumers with information on a topic, while including a link back to your site to keep them familiar with your business. These can be offered for free or for a small fee.

The word “Free” can be a powerful word to any user and catch their attention quite easily. You would provide some basic information on a topic, which could get them interested in buying an e-Book that has more in-depth information about the same topic.

Socializing For Marketing

One of the more successful ways to find visitors that are looking for what you have to offer is to socialize with others who are like-minded. Here are the most popular ways to socialize for your marketing needs:

Blogging Comments

Find other blogs that have the same kind of topic as your website. Post a reply on some of their posts. Your website link will be associated with your name, and those looking for more information on that topic will check out your site or blog and see what you have to offer them.

Join Forum Communities

Find message board communities that have topics that relate to your website. Your website link could go in the signature line allowing others to find their way to your site to see what you have. Check with the rules of the board first to make sure this is allowed.

By posting regularly on these forums, you can build credibility as an expert for that topic and gain some trust with some potential consumers who may be thinking about buying from you.

Also, the other board members may refer people they know to your site, so make sure you give back as much as you receive with these communities.

Social Networking Sites

Social networking sites include such popular sites like Myspace and Facebook. These sites attract people who are looking for others who are interested in the same things they are.

Internet marketers use them all the time to hook up with people in their target audience. People who have the same interest as you can communicate and start to build trust with you. They will be more receptive to buy from someone who's in their “group”, or they could pass on your business info to other people they know.

Miscellaneous Marketing Techniques

Here are some other techniques to utilize in your marketing campaigns:

Associate Programs

Start your Associate programs for your products. Let other people earn some money by marketing your products for you. More traffic will find their way to your site through someone else's efforts.

Learn how to start your own successful Associate program and create a web page on your site for others to sign up to be your Associates. This is something that you can announce in your newsletters and update messages.

Adwords

Search engines offer this feature to Business owners to purchase advertising space on the search results pages. Every time someone clicks on that ad, you will be charged a certain amount of money by the search engine.

Because you're paying for the clicks, you will want to provide the most desirable ad possible to increase your return of investment. Poor ads can cost you money, because not everyone who clicks through these ads will want to buy. Keep track of these ads, and pull them or revamp them when necessary to avoid losing too much money for your business.

Word Of Mouth Campaign

This is the easiest marketing technique there is. A simple word of mouth campaign will get people to pass on the information to your business to other people and so on. This works great for local customers and clients to hear about your business, and pass it on to others that may be looking for the same products or information. This is also an inexpensive way to accomplish marketing for your business.

Use Press Releases

This option can be used if you're just opening your doors, or if you're offering a discount or special sale. Press Releases are submitted to sites that publish them for Internet users who are looking for specific information.

They are written as if they're a news story and they showcase your “news” with eye-catching and attention-grabbing headlines and information. Your sale, discount, or business startup would get plenty of exposure to potential consumers and clients.

A well written press release to announce what you are offering may just be what you need to drive a huge amount of traffic to your business website. Consider having one done on a period basis to help keep your business' name fresh on people's minds.

Place An Ad In Local Papers

There's no rule that says you only have to market on the Internet. Why not try marketing locally, by placing ads in local papers. Those advertisements are seen by most everyone that lives within that area and receives that paper.

Sometimes, businesses gain their first sales transactions from local customers, so don't leave out your local area when planning your marketing campaign.

Podcasting

Little Known Secrets For Making Money Online

Podcasting is audio content people use to provide information that people listen to instead of read. It gives them a different medium to learn about a topic they're interested in. People love the option of listening to a podcast while they do something else without having to be glued to their computer screen.

Your business gains credibility and trust amongst the listeners. Those listeners can become customers, so your website will be linked to the audio program.

Marketing On The Fun Side

People love to have fun, so why not provide it with your marketing techniques. Here are a few ways you can give it to them:

Run A Contest

People will come from all over when a contest is announced. Run one on your blog or site to drive more traffic. You will have to market the contest pretty heavily to get people to hear about it, but once they know they will come running.

Make your contest fun and one that almost anyone can participate in. Offer a worthwhile prize to the winner of the contest. If you don't people won't come running the next time you run a contest or anything for your business. A contest could be quizzes to take, an Internet safari to participate in, or just a raffle to draw names in.

Have Promotional Products With Your Business Logo

Websites like Cafe Press will make products like T-shirts, pens, mugs, and even hats with your logo on them. Some of these could be given away as gifts, or you could have Internet visitors purchase them through a link on your site.

These promotional items could be displayed so that anyone who comes in contact with that item will see your logo and be curious about whose business is on them. They can then search out your site to find out exactly what you offer.

Ending Thoughts

Anyone can learn to make money online, whether you have extensive experience or not. All you really need is the drive to succeed, and the ability to work hard and learn as much as you can about the field you choose to go into.

With the numerous options available, you can find a system that meets the needs and skills you have to bring to it. Use all the Marketing methods you can to reach all corners of the Internet globe and drive traffic to your site.

The work you put into it initially will be worth it in the end, as you can start to relax a little and maybe hire someone else to do some of your daily tasks for you. What better way to earn a living than to hire someone else to do your grunt work for you.

The Internet brings more and more cash making opportunities to people like you every day, so why not get on the bandwagon now and start to reap some of the rewards that other Internet marketers are achieving? If they can do it with little experience in the field, so can you!
