description

Implement your knowledge and your passion working with our local health workers that you follow a medical training or that you practice this profession, you give a hand precious health centers in villages. This is indeed an opportunity to provide assistance to those threatened by poor living conditions and basic care which are often an unaffordable luxury. Through this mission, you have the opportunity to observe and understand the reality of public health in Africa. It will be for you, both the discovery and understanding of the environment and its constraints in an environment whose characteristics differ from yours. It is an experience that will give meaning to your vocation. This assignment is suitable for all skill levels and experience of health personnel.

volunteers teach courses in all possible materials and organizing academic support for children in primary schools that have trouble following, and literacy courses for the elderly.

In orphanages, living conditions are Extremely shocking, see unbearable. Conditions of hygiene and comfort are very basic (lack of bed, clothing, footwear, toys, they need special attention and volunteers must be prepared to give a lot of presence and availability! You then help them with their homework, play, chat with them....

No skill is excise in your mission, will and mind being the essential values motivated to change things in his own way ...
